

Company Policy

Founded in 2023, Akhdar is a customer-focused and IT-driven trading company.

Our business model allows us to build and control complex supply chains based on all possible terms of international transactions, and to monitor the quality and safety of goods at every stage of the process. Our membership in the Federation of Oils, Seeds and Fats Association (FOSFA) ensures that trading with us is fair, impartial, simple and reliable.

We are determined to contribute to global food security, develop alternative markets, connecting farmers with customers in regions with complex political situations and unmet needs for agricultural products, all while optimizing costs and streamlining logistics for improved efficiency.

As we strive to become one of the most reliable and efficient trading companies, we acknowledge the fact the way we conduct our operations is as important as the business itself. For this reason, we are committed to full transparency, analytics-based pricing, financially stable deals, the use of financial transaction alternatives, smart, evidence-based decision-making models and embedding sustainable practices in all our business processes.

Our activities are based on four pillars of sustainable development:

- Excellence in everything we do;
- Empowerment of people and communities;
- Access to sustainable agricultural products;
- Protection of the environment.

We ensure the quality of our services by achieving the following objectives:

- Stay customer-centric, continually improve customer satisfaction and develop long-term partnerships;
- Leverage risk-based thinking and emerging opportunities;
- Continuously upskill our employees and engage them in improvement activities;
- Continuously improve the effectiveness of the management system.

We are proud that our extensive distribution network, commitment to sustainable practices and quality management principles enable our customers to benefit from cost-effective operations and competitive products.

The management of Akhdar General Trading LLC is committed to adhering to this Policy and ensuring that all team members have the necessary resources and conditions for its effective implementation.
